

COGNITIVE BEHAVIORAL THERAPY (CBT) – SESSION 10

New Case: Aryan – Booster Session Planning

Full Detailed – More Realistic Style

SESSION INFORMATION

Client:	Aryan (32 y/o Male)	Therapist:	Dr. A.
Session #:	10 of 18–20	Focus:	Booster Session Planning

PRE-SESSION THERAPIST NOTES

Client had mixed results with Action Plan use and previous techniques. Belief in the old thought remains around 45–50%. He continues to express realistic frustration about slow progress. Today's plan: Review Action Plan use, discuss booster session planning, continue cognitive/imagery work, and assign integrated homework.

SESSION START & HOMEWORK REVIEW

Therapist: Good morning, Aryan. How has your week been? Let's review the homework.

Client: It was average. I used the Action Plan once when I noticed increased worry. It helped me stay organized. Worry Postponement helped on some days. I did two small activities again. The time-limit experiment was still difficult. I'm still feeling like progress is slow.

Therapist: Thank you for being honest. Using the Action Plan when warning signs appeared is excellent. These skills often become more natural with practice. Today we can talk about booster sessions — follow-up sessions after the main course ends.

BOOSTER SESSION PLANNING

Therapist: As we move forward, I'd like to plan your booster sessions. These are follow-up sessions after the main course of therapy ends. They help check in, reinforce skills, and catch any early difficulties. Most people find 1–3 booster sessions helpful in the first 3–6 months after therapy.

Client: I think having a couple would make me feel more secure.

Therapist: Great. Let's plan two for now:

- Booster 1: 6 weeks after our final session — we'll review how the Maintenance Plan is working and check in on any difficult situations.
- Booster 2: 3 months after our final session — we'll review long-term progress and make any final adjustments.

Client: That sounds good. I like having them scheduled in advance.

Therapist: Perfect. We can always adjust the timing if needed. The goal is to support you in becoming fully independent while still having a safety net.

CONTINUING COGNITIVE / IMAGERY WORK

Therapist: Last session your belief in the old thought was around 45–50%. How much do you believe it now?

Client: Still around 45–50%. It hasn't changed much this week.

Therapist: That's okay. These beliefs often shift gradually. The imagery work and compassionate note helped it drop temporarily, which shows it can change. We'll keep building on that.

HOMEWORK ASSIGNMENT

Therapist: For this week:

1. Continue daily diary + Worry Postponement practice
2. Continue scheduling 2–3 small activities per week
3. Continue the time-limit experiment with small tasks
4. Practice using your Action Plan when warning signs appear

SESSION SUMMARY & FEEDBACK

Therapist: Today we reviewed your honest progress and planned your booster sessions. How does having the booster sessions scheduled feel?

Client: It feels reassuring. I like knowing there's a plan even after we finish the main sessions.

Therapist: That's exactly the point. Any questions?

Client: No.

POST-SESSION THERAPIST NOTES

- Client responded positively to booster session planning.
- Belief in old thought remains stable around 45–50%.
- Client continues to express realistic mixed feelings about progress.

- Next session: Review homework, continue relapse prevention planning, deepen imagery or cognitive work, prepare for second half of therapy.

Disclaimer: This is a completely fictional but realistic simulation created solely for educational and AI training purposes. It does not represent any real person or therapy.