

COGNITIVE BEHAVIORAL THERAPY (CBT) – SESSION 11

New Case: Rohan (26 y/o) – Contamination OCD + Checking

Highly Detailed – Realistic Style

SESSION INFORMATION

Client:	Rohan (26 years, Male, Software Engineer, Bangalore)	Therapist:	Dr. A.
Session #:	11 of 18–20	Focus:	Continuing ERP + Reviewing Progress

PRE-SESSION THERAPIST NOTES

Client arrived looking more confident and engaged than previous sessions. He practiced the money exposure at home 2 times with good habituation. He reported that anxiety is decreasing faster with repeated practice and that he is delaying other compulsions more consistently. He continues to use labeling effectively. Today's plan: Review home ERP practice in detail, continue ERP with the next hierarchy item (touching a public surface like a metro rail and resisting washing for 30+ minutes), reinforce progress and coping skills, and assign new homework. Maintain supportive and encouraging approach.

SESSION START – HOMEWORK REVIEW

Therapist: Good morning, Rohan. How has your week been? I'm curious to hear how the money exposure practice at home went.

Client: (speaking with more confidence) It went quite well. I practiced it two times. The first time, anxiety went up to around 65–70 and took about 14–15 minutes to come down significantly. By the second time, it only went up to around 50 and came down faster — in about 9–10 minutes. I was able to delay washing and eat without washing immediately. I also noticed that on days when I used labeling quickly, other contamination urges felt more manageable too. I still washed more than I ideally want to, but I'm delaying significantly more often now.

Therapist: That's excellent continued progress. You're clearly experiencing faster habituation with repeated practice — the anxiety is rising less and coming down quicker. You're also generalizing the labeling skill effectively. How are you feeling about these changes?

Client: I feel more hopeful and a bit proud. Each practice is getting a bit easier, and I'm seeing that I can handle more than I thought. I'm still nervous about some of the higher items on the list, but I think I can keep going.

CONTINUING ERP – NEXT HIERARCHY ITEM

Therapist: Since you're making consistent progress, I'd like to suggest we move to the next item on your hierarchy today in session — touching a public surface (like a metro rail or bus handle) and then resisting washing for 30+ minutes. We can practice it here first. How does that sound?

Client: I think I can try that. It feels scarier because it involves a real public surface and longer resistance, but I'm more confident after the last few practices.

Therapist: That's completely understandable. Let's do it step by step. I'll ask you to touch this rail (representing a public metro rail). Then we'll stay with whatever thoughts and anxiety come up, using labeling and breathing. We'll aim to resist washing for at least 30 minutes. Ready when you are.

(In-session exposure conducted: Rohan touched the rail. Initial anxiety rose to around 75/100 with strong urge to wash. He practiced labeling and breathing. After 32 minutes, anxiety decreased to around 18/100. He reported that the urge weakened significantly over time, though it was stronger than previous exposures. Post-exposure processing done.)

Therapist: How was that experience for you?

Client: It was harder than the money one, but I could handle it. The anxiety went up more, especially in the beginning, but it still came down after some time. I feel tired now, but also relieved and a bit proud that I was able to resist for over 30 minutes without washing.

Therapist: That's a significant step forward. You tolerated higher anxiety and still experienced strong habituation over a longer period. This builds real confidence that you can handle more difficult real-life situations. How are you feeling about practicing this one at home?

Client: I think I can try it 1 time this week. I'm still nervous, but today's practice helped a lot.

HOMEWORK ASSIGNMENT

Therapist: For this week:

1. Practice touching a public surface (metro rail or bus handle) and resisting washing for 30+ minutes (1 time)
2. Continue practicing the money exposure at home
3. Continue labeling and monitoring

Client: I'll try the public surface one. I feel more prepared after today's session.

Therapist: Excellent. We'll review how it went next session.

SESSION SUMMARY & FEEDBACK

Therapist: Today we reviewed your strong progress at home, did the next hierarchy item in session (public surface), and saw excellent habituation. How are you feeling about today's session?

Client: I feel more confident than before. Each exposure is getting a bit easier, and I'm seeing that I can handle more than I thought. I'm still scared of some higher items, but I think I can keep going.

Therapist: That's wonderful to hear. Any questions before we finish?

Client: Not really.

POST-SESSION THERAPIST NOTES

- Client showed continued strong progress in ERP. Successfully completed seventh hierarchy item in session with excellent habituation.
- Client reported increased confidence and faster habituation with repeated practice.
- Motivation and engagement remain high. Client is gradually building tolerance to higher anxiety levels.
- Next session: Review home ERP practice, continue ERP with next hierarchy item if ready, reinforce coping skills and self-compassion, address any emerging difficulties.
