

COGNITIVE BEHAVIORAL THERAPY (CBT) – SESSION 12

Reviewing Maintenance Plan & Booster Session Planning

Fictional Educational Example — Full Detailed

SESSION INFORMATION

Client: RK (35 y/o Male)
Session #: 12 of 16

Therapist: Dr. A.
Focus: Maintenance Plan review + Booster session planning

PRE-SESSION THERAPIST NOTES

Client brought his written Maintenance Plan paragraph. Progress remains strong. Belief in the old perfectionistic thought is stable at ~20%. Today we will review the Maintenance Plan, plan booster sessions in detail, review recent experiments, and continue preparing him for the final phase with emphasis on long-term self-management and independence.

SESSION START & HOMEWORK REVIEW

Therapist: Good morning, RK. How has your week been? I see you brought your Maintenance Plan paragraph.

Client: It was a steady week. I used the balanced belief a few times when old thoughts tried to creep in. The experiments are still helping me feel more confident. I wrote the Maintenance Plan paragraph as requested.

Therapist: Excellent. Can you read it to me?

Client: "After therapy ends, I will continue using my Coping Card and Action Plan whenever I notice early warning signs. I will keep practicing Worry Time and the balanced belief daily for the first month, then reduce to as-needed. I will do one behavioral experiment every month to keep my skills sharp. If symptoms return and don't improve after 7–10 days, I will contact Dr. A for a booster session."

Therapist: That's a very clear and realistic plan. I like that you included regular behavioral experiments to keep the skills active. How do you feel about this plan?

Client: It feels doable and not overwhelming. I think I can actually stick to it.

BOOSTER SESSION PLANNING

Therapist: As we get closer to the end of therapy, let's plan your booster sessions. These are follow-up sessions after the main course ends to check in, reinforce skills, and catch any early signs of difficulty. Most people find 1–3 booster sessions very helpful in the first 3–6 months after therapy.

Client: I think having a couple would make me feel more secure.

Therapist: Great. Let's plan two for now:

- *Booster 1: 6 weeks after our final session — we'll review how the Maintenance Plan is working and do a quick check-in on any difficult situations.
- *Booster 2: 3 months after our final session — we'll review long-term progress and make any final adjustments to your plan.

Client: That sounds good. I like having them scheduled in advance.

Therapist: Perfect. We can always adjust the timing if needed. The goal is to support you in becoming fully independent while still having a safety net.

HOMEWORK ASSIGNMENT

Therapist: For this week:

1. Continue daily diary + Worry Time / Postponement
2. Practice using your Maintenance Plan paragraph and Coping Card
3. Do one more behavioral experiment
4. Refine your Maintenance Plan paragraph if anything feels missing after today's discussion

SESSION SUMMARY & FEEDBACK

Therapist: Today we reviewed your excellent Maintenance Plan and planned your booster sessions. You're taking real ownership of your long-term success. How does having the booster sessions scheduled feel?

Client: It feels reassuring. I like knowing there's a plan even after we finish the main sessions.

Therapist: That's exactly the point. Any questions?

Client: No, I'm clear.

POST-SESSION THERAPIST NOTES

- Client's Maintenance Plan is clear, realistic, and well thought out.
- Booster session plan agreed upon (6 weeks + 3 months).
- Client showing strong self-efficacy and commitment to long-term maintenance.

- Next session: Review refined Maintenance Plan, continue experiments, deepen relapse prevention work, prepare for final sessions (13–16).

Disclaimer: This is a completely fictional but realistic simulation created solely for educational and AI training purposes. It does not represent any real person or therapy.